Better Be Safe Than Sorry Ever After

According to the provisions of the California State Motor Vehicle law all registrations of automobiles expire on January 31, and applications for renewals must be filed with the Superintendent of the Motor Vehicle Department at Sacramento or with his assistants at the branches in San Francisco, Fresno and Los Angeles prior to that date.

Failure to comply with these restrictions makes all owners of motor vehicles liable to a penalty, which amounts to 25 per cent additional to the required license fee and makes both the fee and penalty a lien on the vehicle and may be collected by seizure and sale.

The Rand Memorial

The Pine Cone is indebted to Mrs. Josephine Rand Rogers of Palo Alto and San Jose for much data relative to the dedicating of the monument, which her late brother, George F. Rand, gave to France, commemorating the valor and tragedy incidental to the obliteration of an entire French battalion at Verdun when those brave soldiers were standing ready to charge the enemy.

The significant memorial was dedicated on December 8, 1920, in the presence of President Millerand, Marshals Foch, Joffre and Petain and the American Ambassador, together with George F. Rand, Jr. and the Misses Evelyn and Gretchen Rand, at Verdun, France. Mrs. Rogers is a frequent visitor to and has property interests in Carmel.

New State Map

The California State Irrigation Association at Sacramento is distributing free a relief map in colors of the State of California, which graphically shows the natural features of the State. Of wall size, it also indicates how it is proposed under the Marshall Plan to redistribute the flow of the streams in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys to irrigate twelve million acres of land. It is of especial interest to all who are interested in irrigation and water conservation.

Off For Europe

Word has been received by Attorney and Mrs. Charles Clark from their son, Charles Edgar Clark of Austin, Texas, apprising them of the fact that he has started upon his European tour in the interests of the cotton merchants of the south. Mr. Clark is one of the most prominent and influential cotton merchants of the southern states. His trip is made to the purpose of expertingthe cotton situation of Europe, and will take him to England, Scotland, Norway and many other countries.

Irvin S. Cobb, the noted American humorist and short story writer, will soon visit California again on a lecture tour. He will speak in San Francisco and Oakland, and may visit with some of his literary friends in Carmel.

Pine Needles

The local public school reopened on Monday with a large attendance, the pupils eager to resume their schooling and the teachers refreshed for their work.

John Arnot, master stone worker, is putting in some fine work on the Van Riper house, located in Carmel's picturesque south end.

Waldo A. Guichard of Ben Lomond was here for several days last week, assisting in taking a stock inventory at L'Accommodation.

Bob Leidig's private laundry did a land office business last week. The washing machine demonstration was a well illustrated lesson on how to avoid sore backs—and save money.

Albert Van Houtte has returned to Los Angeles, where he is teaching history and foreign languages at Westlake Military School, which is located at Mt. Washington. He is also military commandant.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. DuBois of Santa Barbara are here for three months and have the Watts house. They were here for some time last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ellerbe, both writers, have taken the J. K. Turner bungalow for a term. The Turners have departed for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill Vincent entertained a house party over the week-end at their home in Pebble Beach. Dr. and Mrs. Max Rothschild were among the guests.

John J. Mora, prominent sculptor, with his wife, was here last week on a house-hunting tour. If satisfactory accommodations can be found, they will remain in Carmel several months.

If Dame Rumor has the right dope several young people now residing here will indulge in the luxury of matrimony during the coming spring.

Commencing with the next issue the Pine Cone will publish a series of three articles written for it by W. Scott, A. B., a prominent New England educator, clergyman and publicist.

The special Christmas tide offering of All Saint's Church for the relief of the hungry children in Central Europe will be taken at the 11 o'clock service next Sunday morning.

Miss Catherine Comstock is visiting relativer at her home in Santa Rosa. She will probably be away all during January.

Carmel's several dining places were again taxed to capacity on New Year's Day, and they do say that the diners got they money's worth.

Nineteen twenty-one is going to be a big building year in Carmel. Our contractors have orders to go ahead on several dwellings, and many property owners are making plans to build. And these improvements will be spread over the whole city.

Sonia, wife of Vasia, is here from Los Angeles, and will remain for some time.

Robert Norton left on Friday for Stanford University to resume his studies. He is specializing in foreign commerce.

Miss Marion P. Hilliard, an instructor in Notre Dame College, San Jose, was a visitor here last week. She intends to make frequent trips to Carmel.

Mrs. Howard Waterman and daughters, Miss Polly Echols, Miss Stella McKee, Mrs. Sidney Hawkins, Bronson Waterman and Max Hopper, all of Palo Alto, occupied the Cobbe cottage during the holidays.

The Clute family plan to move into another house next month in order to be nearer Mrs. Clute's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McCollom.

Jimmy Lawson, after several weeks here with his mother, returned to the city last week, and on Monday took a position with the Spreckels Steamship Company.

With the close of business on December 27 but $246.90 is due the city for 1920 municipal taxes. This small delinquency is on a total of $5,981.95.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Covington and daughter are leaving Carmel for Santa Barbara to remain there until spring.

The Hicks—one, two, three, four, five—are back from Red Bluff. They had a glorious time, and Ford acted like a gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert W. Jackson, who have been here for several weeks putting their house in shape for rentings are returning to the city shortly. Should their house be available during February, they will spend the month here.

Concrete or Asphalt That is the Question

The first 1921 meeting of the city fathers, held on Tuesday night, was an interesting one, not so much so because of business actually transacted, but by reason of the discussion of plans for the improvement of Ocean avenue.

Contractor R. Ruthven addressed the meeting concerning the advantages of concrete over natural bitumen, and trustees and citizens, of which there were a large number present, talked about the manner in which the improvement should be financed. Two plans were suggested, one requiring that the property owners on Ocean avenue shoulder the entire expense, the other that the property owners bear the expense only from Mission street to San Antonio, and that west of San Antonio the cost be assumed by the property owners and all other city lots.

It was stated that the cost of concrete would be about 25 cents a square foot and bitumen 21 or 22 cents.

No action was taken toward appointing a successor to Fred A. Treat, whose resignation as city attorney was tendered and accepted last week.

The board adjourned to meet on January 18, at which time Attorney Hugh Osburn and Engineer Henry Fisher will meet with the board and present data for Ocean avenue improvement.

Y. W. C. A. Conference

The annual student conference of the Young Men's Christian Association in California is in session this week at Asilomar. There are about two hundred delegates from the colleges and universities of the coast.

Asilomar is the national conference grounds of the Young Women's Christian Association, and is one of the beauty spots of the Pacific Coast. It is located on the Monterey Peninsula, and is equipped to accommodate 500 guests. Ten thousand people have attended conferences at Asilomar during the last five years.

The management is especially anxious that the place shall be better known throughout the surrounding country, and is throwing all buildings and grounds open for a Come and See Day. Members of the Conference Grounds Committee and representatives of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. will serve as guides and hostesses, and everyone will be welcome.

The Conference Grounds Committee includes Mrs. John F. Merrill, Mrs. A. Crawford Greene, Mrs. Phebe Ridcut and Mrs. Lawrence Draper of San Francisco; Mrs. E. L. Baldwin of Berkeley; Mrs. J. E. Bell of Saratoga; Mrs. Seeley W. Mudd and Mrs. W. A. Moses of Los Angeles; and Miss Ella Deming, Miss Sarah C. Parke and Mrs. Caller B. Whitwel of Pacific Grove.

The Roke family have moved to the Fish cottage, their own place having been rented to Miss Perry and Miss Sweet of Denver. These ladies were here last year, and will again conduct a school of dancing for several months.

Mrs. Rose J. DeYoe has returned from Oakland, where she visited with her son and daughter in-law.

Interesting Art News

The art event of the week, and that in which the interest of California was most deeply centered, was the opening last Sunday of the new Golden Gate Park Memorial Museum The second unit is to be formally added to that one made available to the public a year ago. The fine structure, designed on Moorish lines by Louis C. Mullgardt, is in itself an attraction not to be surpassed in this country. The museum is the gift of M H. DeYoung.

The Autumn Salon of Paris, of the year just passed, is said by one of the critics to have merited for the first time in seventeen years the right to be "recognized as of public utility." Other comments include the fact of a large number of convases by American artists, of which he says, "They are so diverse in theme and treatment and so scattered throughout the exhibition that it would be a long and tedious task to determine whether they are manifestations of a common national tendency or just reflections of the tendencies of the various French groups."

Francis McComas is pleasing the New York art critics with his brilliantly hued water colors of the Arizona desert, and much favorable comment has been accorded him as a deliberate but dramatic draughtsman and vivid colorist. He finds the level stretches and sharply emerging cliff forms of the desert congenial material, and studies it with a balanced sensationalism and dignity.

Reading Circle

The members of the Reading Circle had a most enjoyable evening on Monday. Miss Edith Welling played the following selections with rare taste and feeling: "Woodbird's Delight," Joseph Hofmann; "Serenade," Jerkowitz; "Fleurette," Blume schein.

Miss Wickliffe Covington gave a group of songs in a charming manner: "Lo, the Dusk" and "Till I Wake," by Amy Woodforde Winden; Irish lullaby, "Hasheim," Alice Adelaide Nelsham; "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," James N. Rogers.

Selections were read from Margaret Cameron, O. Henry, Miss Wilkins and Mr. Dooles.

"David Copperfield" was decided upon for this year, and the first reading will take place Monday, January 10, 8 p. m., at Gray Gables. Everyone cordially invited. On February 7, Dickens's birthday, there will be a Book Party at Arts and Crafts Hall.

Development of Radiolife

The opinion was advanced in France and elsewhere that because ordinary farm soil is often more strongly radioactive than the radium mixtures used in the experiments, that any pronounced action was due to other causes. These opinions were based on the assumption that the radioactivity in the soil was due to radium and not to other agencies. It is far more probable that it is in part due to the direct effect of the sun upon the soil. However, this may be, the results obtained in these scientifically conducted experiments speak for themselves.

Stocklosa's investigations and experiments extended over a period of seven years, the results being embodied in a voluminous report, made in September, 1913. He summarizes as follows:

"All of our researches point to the fact that radium emanations, with a low activity, favorably influence the caryokinesis of the cell, the entire development of the plant, the mechanism of the metabolism, the photochemical assimilation in the chlorenchyma, bud formation and finally fructification. Emanations of too great activity exert an inhibiting influence on the growth of the plant and cause toxic symptoms in the cells, both in those containing chlorophyll and those free from the substance."

He concludes, finally, that the effects of the radioactivity are greatest on young foliage and most equally great on the petal tissues of the flower.

The practical result of all this research and experimentation was the working out of a formula for a radioactive compound that can be easily applied to the soil and which is adapted to the general use.

ALLAN G. MACDONELL.

Music Matters

Emilio de Gogorza, the distinguished Spanish-American baritone, will give two recitals this season in San Francisco under the local management of Selby C. Oppenheimer on the Sunday afternoons of January 23 and 30 in the Columbia Theater, San Francisco. That the voice and artistry of the singer are at their best was shown in his New York recital last month.

A continued improvement in the condition of Enrico Caruso was reported in a New Year's bulletin from physicians. While his recovery will be slow, as in serious cases of pleurisy there appears to be no doubt now of the famous tenor's return to the musical world. This news will bring joy to Caruso lovers.

Emmy Destinn, the distinguished Bohemian dramatic soprano, will soon leave New York on her tour of the Pacific Coast. Arrangements for one recital in the Columbia Theater, San Francisco, on Sunday afternoon, February 6, have been made.

3,500,000 CHILDREN FACING STARVATION

Vast Relief Effort Launched by Eight Leading American Organizations to Avert Tragedy.

The most spontaneous as well as the largest consolidation of effort in the history of American relief and charitable organizations has grown out of the disaster which threatens 3,500,000 European children this winter. To the headquarters of every agency that dispenses American mercy overseas has come one steady cry for months past; the children, most helpless and blameless sufferers in the track of war, will perish by the thousands before next harvest unless America saves them!

When Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross, returned from a recent trip abroad, his report throbbed with the need of the children. From the feeding-stations of the American Relief Administration throughout eastern and central Europe came letters, cables, pleas of every sort. The Protestant churches sent investigators into after-war conditions and every report breathed the impending tragedy of starving and diseased children. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, the child life of Europe is threatened with heartrending misery.

The European Relief Council, with Herbert Hoover as chairman and the whole power of American charitable thought and effort behind it, has been formed. It consists of Edgar Rickard, representing the American Relief Administration; Dr. Livingston Farrand, representing the American Red Cross; Felix Warburg, representing the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; Wilbur K. Thomas, representing the American Friends' Service Committee; James A. Flaherty, representing the Knights of Columbus; Dr. C. V. Hibbard, representing the Young Men's Christian Association; Miss Sarah S. Lyon, representing the Young Women's Christian Association; Dr. Arthur Brown, representing the Federal Council of Churches.

It is the purpose of the Council to raise $83,000,000, in an appeal centering at the Christmas holidays, to the end that the situation regarding child life may be met. In every town and community of the nation, it is hoped, local committees, representing all the co-operating agencies will be formed to secure the vitally necessary funds. Of the amount sought, $23,000,000 will be used for basic food. For every one of these American dollars the local governments and communities aided will furnish two dollars, in the form of transportation, labor, guards, clerical help, cash contributions and such food supplies as are locally obtainable. No children receive the free food except after medical tests showing them to be seriously under-nourished. The remaining $10,000,000 of the fund is just as urgently needed for medical service to the children.

The European Relief Council will do much more than effect economies in the raising of the childsaving fund. It will, with the inspecting forces of eight great agencies, keep a constant eye on the administration of America's merciful gift, in order that there shall be no wastage and no tendency toward pauperization.

Community Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Community Club of Carmel will be held at Pine Inn on Monday, January 10, at 3 p. m. As this will be the first meeting in the new year the club will be especially pleased to welcome any new members.

If you read it in the Pine Cone you may safely repeat it.

CLEVER MADAM HEN

IF MADAM HEN had not been tempted to leave her nest that morning all would have been well with her.

Madam hen knew she ought to sit on those eggs, for they were nearly ready to hatch; but for one little run, she felt, it would not matter; she would not be gone long.

But Madam Hen knew not of the dangers that awaited her. For Mr. Fox had left his home that morning with the intention of bringing back for his dinner a nice plump hen, and Madam Hen was very plump.

Mr. Fox was hiding right back of a clump of bushes near the moist place where the worms were, and hardly had Madam Hen begun to scratch when, pounce! Mr. Fox had her and into his bag he put her, head first.

But when Mr. Fox came to a stream he had to cross he sat down to rest and then he heard something about chickens and listened.

"What is that about fine chickens?" he asked.

Madam Hen told him then of the beautiful white eggs in a nest where no one would find it and she knew her eggs would spoil. If only she had time to hatch them she would not feel so badly about going with Mr. Fox. "But I have neglected my duty," she told him. "I should not have left the nest this morning."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," he said. "If you will take me to the nest I'll let you go. Of course I am to have my pick of two of the chickens when they are hatched."

Madam Hen waited a minute and then she said she would agree to do this if Mr. Fox would take her back to the place he found her, "for my nest is in some hay not far from there," she told him.

Mr. Fox should have known that a mother would give her own life to save her children, but as he was a bachelor he knew nothing about such things, so he took up the bag and started back.

When he reached the place where he had found her he let Madam Hen out, but he took good care to hold her by one leg while he tied a string to her before he let her go.

"If you make a sound," he told her, "off comes your head."

But Madam was not thinking of making any noise. She had another plan, and if it worked off would come Mr. Fox's head perhaps, so she led him quietly back of the barn to an opening and let him look in.

Sure enough, there was the nest with the eggs. "Go in," said Mr. Fox, and in she went and hopped on the nest.

Mr. Fox saw an opening at the other end of Madam Hen's hiding place but he thought nothing of that. All he noticed was that the place was filled with hay, so he held the string and told Madam Hen he would wait right there until the eggs were hatched.

He did wait for a few minutes and then as he poked in his head again to see if she were safe Mr. Fox saw crawling through that other opening Mr. Dog. Mr. Dog saw him and right through the place he came, pushing Madam Hen in his hurry nearly off her nest. Out he bounded, and after Mr. Fox he flew, for Mr. Fox had dropped the string fastened to Madam Hen's leg and forgot all about the chickens.

Madam Hen had made her nest in Mr. Dog's house at the very back, where the old boards had broken away and a hole in the fence made another door to his house, so no one but Mr. Dog knew her secret, and, feeling he must take good care of her, he looked in many times during the day to see that all was well.

Madam Hen knew, if once she could get back on the nest she was saved, and her plan worked out just as she had expected it would.

JUNIOR RED CROSS ACTIVE IN EUROPE

Garden seeds for Polish orphans, milk for anaemic Greek babies, carpenters' tools for Czecho-Slovakian cripples—these are only a few of the gifts that young Americans are sending to the war-crushed children of the Old World.

Through the Junior Red Cross the boys and girls of the United States are giving a fresh start in life to little war orphans scattered all over Europe. They have set up orphans' homes in France, school colonies in Belgium and Montenegro, and day schools in Albania.

They are sending dozens of young Syrians, Montenegrins, and Albanians to American colleges in Constantinople and Beirut, and maintaining more than a hundred orphans of French soldiers at colleges and trade schools. In orphanages and farm schools up and down the peninsula of Italy there are nearly 500 wards of American Juniors.

Last winter a thousand French children from the inadequate shelters of the devasted regions were sent by the Junior Red Cross to spend the cold months in warmer parts of France. At the same time five thousand little Belgians were having a hot lunch every day at Junior Red Cross school canteens.

American school children have already raised something like a million dollars for these enterprises, and they are still hard at work.

In China, through campaigns of education, the Junior Red Cross is helping to combat widely prevalent blindness and cholera.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. Lurie

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"WHO," "WHOM," AND "WHICH."

THE relative pronouns, "who," "whom," and "whose" should be used only in speaking or writing of persons; when reference is made to animals or inanimate objects, the proper usage requires the use of "which" and "of which." (But, "whose" may be used instead of "of which" when the use of the latter expression makes the phrase or sentence awkward or harsh.)

Do not say, "Those which say so are mistaken." Say, "Those who say so are mistaken." Do not say, "He has some friends which I know." Say, "He has some friends whom I know."

It is curious to note that Dr. Samuel Johnson, the famous English writer of the eighteenth century, and compiler of the standard dictionary of his time, was guilty of this error. In his novel, "Rasselas," he said: "Frequently every fowl whom nature has taught to dip the wing in water." Instead of "whom" he should have written "which."

MIRACLE OF THE THORN STAFF

Pretty Legend of Ancient Britain That is Often Repeated in England at Christmas Time.

It is one of the prettiest legends of ancient Britain—the old Christmas story of the thorn of Glastonbury. William of Malmesbury, the chronicler, told it hundreds of years ago in his "Antiques of Glastonbury." It is repeated often at Christmas time in England.

The legend tells how Joseph of Arimathea, was so persecuted by Pontius Pilate, because he had laid away the body of Christ in his sepulcher, that he fled to Gaul, carrying with him under a cloth of mystical white samite, the Holy Grail. In Gaul he found the Apostle Philip, preaching to the heathen, and he rested with him a few days.

One night a radiant light awakened him, and an angel bade him go to Britain and preach the glad tidings to King Arvigatrus; and, where a Christmas miracle should come to pass, there to build a church.

He and a band of followers followed the instructions of the angel, and Arvigatrus gave them the Isle of Avalon, and bade them erect an altar there to the new God. It was a beautiful gift. The tiny isle lay warm in a verdant valley. Sparkling waves softly lapped its shore. Soft breezes played in its trees, and nowhere was the sky so blue as over Avalon.

When they reached the top of the hill called Weary All, Joseph planted his thorn staff he had carried with him on his long journeys over land and sea, deep into the ground, and lo it took root, and immediately there blossomed a bush of beautiful white flowers.

"This is where we will build our church," the good man said, and so, at Glastonbury Abbey—for so Avalon is known today—the thorn bushes bloom white at each Christmas time, lend their fragrance to the frosty air, and remind all who see them of the Christmas miracle.

Bugologist Renders Report on Carrington Discovery

Editor The Pine Cone—Sir: As per your request, I am pleased to make the following comments on the supposed rare beetle captured by Mother Carrington, which was reported in your previous issue. While I admit, at first glance, even a connoisseur might consider it X. nauticus, Mannerheim, on examination with a high-powered glass, I find several characters which will separate it from that species:

I—The warts on X. nauticus are rather coarsely muricately punctate, whereas in this specimen they more closely resemble an attack of poison oak.

II—The abdominal salient (in this specimen, a vivid red) is similar to crepe de chine, while nauticus distinctly resembles mouselline de soie.

III—The eyes of nauticus are arcuate, while in this specimen they are 14 per cent more wistful.

IV—The tibiæ of nauticus are truncate and finely beaded, while in this specimen they resemble hat wire,

And so forth.

In order to properly determine this species, an X-ray should be taken of his stomach to see what he eats, although if the individual under examination had just eaten his Christmas dinner, this contents would be no criterion.

I suggest that this description be placed in the Smithsonian Institution. I will retain this, the type specimen, giving it a temporary manuscript label —Lundibus fakibus, Carrington. Of course, this cannot be definitely settled until we go East and compare this with the type specimen of Nauticus and carefully check it up with Mannerheim's original description

Effort should be made to secure a good series of co-types or para-types of this interesting species, which is undoubtedly new, and deposit them with the description in the above-mentioned institution.

I would also suggest that he be controlled by being required to sit in the electric chair instead of having his neck wrung, which you will agree would be much more humane.

I congratulate Mother Carrington on this important discovery and trust her scientific research will show progress during the coming year.

Very truly,
L. S. SLEVIN.

New Year Customs

The birthday of a New Year follows next in importance after Christmas and is observed with almost the same spirit. The custom of exchanging gifts at this time still survives from the time of the adoption of the Julian calendar when January 1st became a general holiday. At that time the Emperors exacted from their subjects tribute of a pound of gold. This present was called strenna, and the legendary origin is ascribed to King Tatius to whom branches of vervain, gathered in the sacred grove of Strenna, goddess of strength, were presented.

About the fifth century when December 25th had become an established festival commemorative of the nativity, the 1st of January assumed a specially sacred character as the octave of Christmas, and as such still figures in church festivals.

In Scotland New Year's Day is celebrated with much fervor, in fact is the most important day of all to the people of that country.

In France the gifts exchanged are called omens of good luck.

In our country the old custom of holding receptions and exchanging visits still survives.

The eve of the New Year is usually marked by gatherings, large and small, to await the coming of the New Year; dancing and gayety are always attendant upon this celebration. There are special church services, the turkey is again prepared, and amid much gayety and happiness the New Year is begun.

A statement of county funds on hand shows: $35.21 in the Sunset School bond fund; $865.74 in the Carmel Sanitary bond fund; $332.24 in the Carmel Sanitary expense fund.

Dramatic Notes

Douglas Fairbanks, he of the perpetual smile, who was in Carmel recently, is to produce a new movie version of "The Virginian," according to news coming from Los Angeles last week. "It," the film publication, carries the story of the projected production of Dustin Farnum's famous stage success.

Mrs. Mary Kate Byron, 75 years old, widow of Oliver Doud Byron, a noted actor, and sister of the late Ada Rehan, and herself prominent on the American stage for many years, died last week in Montclair, N. J. Ada Rehan was the most famous actress of the family, but the other sisters, Kate and Hattie, also became known on the stage. Kate and Hattie Rehan made their joint debut in 1867, singing in the choruses of "Leah, the Forsaken," in Niblo's Garden, New York city.

Dreams of becoming cinema stars are being shattered in the minds of scores of girls throughout the Middle West as a result of the bursting of an alleged promotion bubble in Kansas City, known as the International Pictures Corporation.

The scheme, according to Federal officers, was simple: An advertisement placed in an Eastern theatrical magazine asked for chorus girls and leads. The answers came quickly, and then on beautifully engraved stationery the applicants were told a tale of a trip to California, a chartered yacht that was to sail to the South Seas, drop anchor at Egypt and cruise European waters. The only requisite was a deposit of $50 to "keep away curiosity seekers."

"-for clean oil in a clean engine"

"See what we found in your crankcase oil"

THIS lens shows some of the dirt that can be found in any crankcase after a few weeks of driving—road dust, carbon and fine particles of metal. Such dirt circulates with the lubricating oil through the engine, together with gasoline that escapes past the pistons and dilutes the oil.

Have the dirty, diluted oil in your crankcase drained out—now—before unnecessary wear begins.

We can do that best for you with Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service—convenient, quick, economical. We use Calol Flushing Oil, the scientific, thorough flushing agent which does not contaminate the fresh oil. We assure proper lubrication for your engine by refilling the cleaned crankcase with Zerolene of the correct grade.

Make a regular habit of Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service. It gives better engine performance and longer life to your car.

Observations FROM THE Editorial Sanctum

SCHOOL BONDS

Parents have commended the Pine Cone's suggestion that a bond issue should be voted for the enlargement of Sunset School. The lack of accommodations for the pupils now attending our school has caused much unfavorable comment from visitors as well as uneasiness among resident parents.

When public notice is directed to such a vital matter as safeguarding the health and thereby encouraging punctual and regular school attendance of Carmel children there will be unanimous support to the proposed measure to secure the necessary funds imperatively required in the very near future.

This support is obviously advantageous to all voters in the school district whether they have children attending our school or not.

Head lines in daily newpapers announce that factories are closing and the ranks of the unemployed becoming more numerous, and editorials blame the "pace that kills" as the reason therefor. We of Carmel wish to go on record declaring that the serenity of our lives and our progress remains undisturbed, excepting for the regret for the distress occasioned by the reported depressed industrial conditions elsewhere.

Again has California's reputation for maintaining order and safe-guarding justice been upheld by the speedy conviction of the gangster-ruffians in San Francisco It is to be hoped that the commendable action of the District Attorney trial judge and jury in that case will not be later be nullified by the State Board of Prison Directors, who are permitted by the Indeterminate Prison Sentence law to usurp the majesty of our criminal courts and dignity of our jury system, which statesmen have declared to be the bulwark of law and justice.

Taking one consideration with another, life is not as smooth as it appears on the screen, at least to the makers of the "movies" at Point Lobos. After paying their daily toll, exacted at the entrance gate, they are constantly striving to offset the efforts of the elements to disrupt their replica of Monte Carlo. The wind seemingly resents the presence amid nature's grandeur of that grande motif of the the picture play which the Universal Film Co. are endeavoring to bring to a finish, on the Peninsula's future National Park.

SUMMONS

In the Superior Court of the County of Monterey, State of California.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Monterey, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Monterey.

Russell Scott, Attorney for Plaintiff. J. E. Nichols, Plaintiff, vs. Ethel Meek Montgomery, John Doe, Richard Roe and Jane Doe, Defendants.

The People of the State of California sends greetings to: Ethel Meek Montgomery, John Doe, Richard Roe and Jane Doe, Defendants.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court, of the County of Monterey, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or he will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the Superior Court of the County of Monterey, State of California, this 18th day of October, A. D. 1920.

Fortune Gallo is bringing his San Carlo Grand Opera Company to San Francisco this month ror the annual visit and will open an engagement in the Curran Theater on Sunday, January 23. The repertoire will include the usual popular operas by Verdi, Puccini, Bizet, Mascagni, Leoncavallo and Offenbach. Alice Gentle and Anna Fitziu will appear as guest artists with the company, which has virtually the same personnel as last season. Several Carmelenos are planning to hear the company.

Books and Authors

President Emeritus Benjamin I. Wheeler and President David P. Barrows of the University of California, and Mayor Louis Bartlett and other promient citizens of Berkeley, were the guests of honor at a banquet given in honor of Dr. Jose P. Rizal, the Filipino author, by the Filipino Students' Association of the U. C. at the Whitecotton Hotel last week.

Mrs. Charmion London, widow of the late Jack London, after two years of hard work on the biography of her late husband, has completed the story of his life and has sold it to publishers, both in this country and in England. The editions will be brought out early in the year, the Century Company handling it in this country.

---

President Wilson has declined an offer of $150,000, made by a large publishing house, for one article for publication, it has been learned. The reason assigned for the refusal is said to be the President's desire to market his literary output for what it will bring, rather than accept a definite sum for any article, as, when completed, it might not measure up to the standard the President has set for himself.

A delegate to the Ninth District Convention of the California Library Association at Chico notes that much inquiry for technical and occupational writings in the libraries of the state has replaced the recent vogue for books of adventure and plots. This is indicative of the times and fortells some cleaning out of library shelves. There is also noted a growing demand for good children's books.

Harriette Brower, whose two volumes of talks with master pianists and teachers are familiar to students has turned her attention to "Vocal Mastery" to the problem of the singer One may euphemistically call the gossipy messages "personal flavor" without disgutsing their usefulness in a professed textbook. The interviewed are twenty-six in number and include Lehmann, Hempel, Easton-Barrientos, Homer, Tetrazzini, Galli-Curci, Farrar, Caruso, Maurel, Marinelli, Bispham, Witherspoon and Werrenrath. The book is illustrated with twenty photographs.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

NOSE TROUBLES

THERE is comparatively little one can do to beautify the nose—except to keep the skin absolutely perfect and keep it clean and healthy. This means to correct a tendency to nose bleed, to have all adenoids removed and to keep the nasal passages in such condition that they will not harbor disease germs.

Disease enters through the throat and nose. Many serious affections can be caught and stopped by using a nose and throat spray with some simple disinfectant like diluted peroxide, salty water, or some solution with pine in it. Adenoids, by clogging the passage where air enters, induce mouth breathing with its consequent disfigurement of the mouth and stupid expression of the face. Catarrh, indigestion, deafness, and other ills, destructive to beauty, follow this.

Nose bleed is an annoying affliction, and is due frequently to an overabundance of blood. Doctors frequently let a little blood now and then, in people troubled by frequent nose bleed. It is also in some cases a danger signal of trouble in the heart or lungs—enough so that people troubled with irregular and irritating nose bleed would do well to be examined.

If the cause is in misplacement or enlargement of the veins inside the nose, a doctor can cure the trouble. Temporary relief comes from putting a piece of ice on the spine, or stopping the nose with cotton for a time.

ART AND SCIENCE IN TOYS

Playthings for the Kiddies Necessary to the Proper Conduct of Their Society.

WHILE the making of toys is an art that is probably practically as old as the world itself, it has been only within recent years that science has bothered itself about them. Less than half a century ago they were regarded merely as playthings—amusing diversions for children that were by no means necessary to their well-being. Today, however, science insists that there is a well-defined philosophy underlying the use of toys; that they are the tools with which the little ones ply their trade; the paraphernalia necessary to the proper conduct of their society; that dolls, for example, are more to them than the associates that help to entertain them in that they aid them in the attainment of their mental growth by stimulating the natural emotions which must be experienced in later life.

Whether this theory of the scientists is correct or not, the fact remains that children have always had the playthings requisite for their imitations of the domestic life and business affairs of older people; that they have always required their elders to provide them with such inventions, and that, when they could not obtain these toys by any other means they themselves have sought and found objects that might be made to suit their purposes. Even the somnolent middle Ages did not put an end to their pastimes. The toys in which they found diversion may have been more simple, but, as they met the demands of nature, they played their allotted part in the scheme of human development.—Public Opinion.

Exit 1820

Many pleasant social festivities marked the passing of the old year and the advent of the new in Carmel last Friday night. While there were no public ceremonies there were many private gatherings where enjoyment reigned.

The principal event, as in years gone by, was Herbert Heron's dancing party, where more than a half hundred Carmeleuos danced away past midnight. At that witching hour the blowing of horns, discharge of firearms and husky lungs contributed to a pandemonium of noise.
